

Welcome to WeCount!

Citizens generating mobility data & knowledge

Announcing the launch of WeCount!

The WeCount project is now officially underway! Over the coming months, we will begin engaging citizens to monitor traffic and inform local decision-making.

Find out more about WeCount

What we've been up to recently

BBC News: Europe-wide traffic survey to recruit 'citizen scientists'

Earlier this year WeCount was covered in an article on BBC News, highlighting the innovative approach to engage citizens in mobility policy-making.

View the BBC coverage

In this article on the POLIS website, Griet De Ceuster explains how citizen science is helping to map the impact of COVID-19 on urban mobility.

Discover the numbers

WeCount features in POLIS 'Post-Lockdown Mobility' webinar

As part of POLIS Network's Post-Lockdown Mobility webinar series, Kris Vanherle from Transport Mobility Leuven presented on how WeCount is helping to monitor the impact of COVID-19 on mobility.

Read the summary of the webinar here

Visit the WeCount website!

Subscribe

Past Issues

Translate ▼

---

This project has received funding from the European Union's Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme under grant agreement No 872743.

---

Copyright © 2020 WeCount, All rights reserved.

You can unsubscribe at any time. We will keep your personal data in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation (see our Privacy Policy for details).

Want to change how you receive these emails?
You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list.